Take a family vacation—aboard a great President Liner

Every member of the family gets the VIP treatment en route to the Orient—kids and dogs included. For the children there are special open and enclosed areas for supervised play, special movies, and special hours in the heated swimming pool. For the family dog there's a comfortable topside kennel with spacious runs. For the parents there are all the comforts of a luxurious resort hotel—air conditioned cabins, fine foods, expert service—and the leisure time to enjoy them while cruising to Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and the Philippines. For six weeks everyone lives like a king aboard a great President Liner—even Dexter, the lucky dog.

DEBUTS OF THE WEEK

FRANCO TAGLIAVINI

Born in 1934 in the province of Reggio Emilia in Italy, tenor Tagliavini makes his American debut as Ismaele in Tuesday night's "Nabucco" and later in the season will be heard as Calaf in "Turandot."

His debut occurred only two years ago at Milan's Teatro Nuovo in "Cavalleria Rusticana" and this was immediately followed by engagements in many other Italian theaters including Catania's Teatro Massimo Bellini in such operas as "Tosca," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "La Boheme," and "Mefistofele." Last winter he replaced the ailing Mario del Monaco and scored great successes in Nice and Lyon. Recent performances have included Honegger's "Joan of Arc at the Stake" on RAI and a new production of "Boris Godunov" at the Rome Opera.

Due to a conflict in dates Tagliavini was unable to accept an offer from La Scala last year, but is now scheduled to make his debut at that house following his San Francisco engagement.

SAM RESNICK

A graduate of Northwestern University, Mr. Resnick has appeared with the Chicago Lyric Opera, Detroit Opera Theatre and Kansas City Lyric Theatre.

In San Francisco he has performed with the Opera Guild Talent Bank prior to his debut with the Company this week as Springer in "The Bartered Bride."

SPECIAL NOTICE

The San Francisco Opera Box Office in the outer lobby will be open at all performances throughout the first intermission. Tickets may be purchased at that time for the remainder of the 1964 season.

A car in the luxury class is not a casual purchase.

It must be a considered investment. Consider, then, the 1965 Imperial.

By actual measurement, it is one of America's most spacious cars. It is also the most quiet. Facts of no small concern to the discerning investor.

Imperial is a car of absolutes. The interior is accented with inlays of rare claro walnut, some 100 years old. All important power assists are standard.

"THE TEMPI MUST MOVE"

This letter by Verdi to the Director of La Fenice in Venice came to light just four months ago. It was written shortly after "Nabucco" had been given its premiere at La Scala, and La Fenice was already preparing to present the new work. Almerinda Granchi sang the role of Fenena in the Fenice production.

Ill.^m Hoff Marchese

Milano 19 Dec- 1842?

Eccole l'adagio per la Siff. Granchi. La forza troppo alta lo trasportino un tono sotto. Io interesso la compiacenza della S. V. a voler far sì che mi si dia ogni questa partitura come parti copiate appena se ne saranno scritte) perché amo che lo spartito resti come è scritto. — Pregherei altresì di far osservare al maestro che prima ^{insomma} il habemus che i tempi non siano larghi. Tutti vanno copri e specialmente il Canone del Finale secondo — con
tutta stima mi prego

Luca Verdi

(translation)

Milan, December 19th, 1842.

Here is the adagio for Signora Granchi—if it is too high she may transpose it down a whole tone. I would be grateful if you could see that this part of the score with the cuts is returned to me (as soon as they have been copied) as I want the original vocal score to remain intact. Furthermore, I would beg you to make sure that the conductor who rehearses "Nabucco" does not drag the tempi. All the tempi must move, especially in the canon of the second act finale. With all esteem I remain

"CARMINA BURANA"

"Carmina Burana," "Songs from Benediktbeuern" is the current name for a collection of around two hundred songs from the Middle Ages. The manuscript had been lying for centuries in the ancient monastery of Benediktbeuern in the Bavarian Alps, until it was discovered by the chief librarian of Munich, Christoph Freiherr von Aretin, in the year 1803 in the course of the disestablishment of Bavarian monasteries, and published by Johann Andreas Schmeller for the first time in extenso in 1847. It was Schmeller who gave the collection its felicitous title of "Carmina Burana."

What the unknown amateur and collector had compiled in his Codex at the end of the 13th century from various sources and models is a bright mixture of songs and poems, unequal in kind, form, language and content as well as poetic value. Next to artistically wrought structures, formal virtuoso pieces in the taste of those days, there are simple untutored rimes; next to learned metres which are written in scholarly clichés, phrases and motives and embroydered with various mythological additions we are surprised to find popular verses of unselfconscious freshness together with pieces of a strongly individual nature and forcefulness. Some verses are written in classical hexameters. But the predominant form is that of rime, which had been handed on by clerical poetry to secular verse. The language is chiefly medieval Latin which had been developed from the ancient language, a language which was still perfectly mastered at that time by the least cleric and scholar. But there was no lack of songs in middle high German, as well as some in foreign tongues. Latin and German, and Latin and French are gracefully combined in the same macaronic song.

The contents of the poems are as varied as the language and forms. Next to a group of moralizing and satirical poems we find laments on the wickedness of the world, the decay of morals, and abuses of the church and the evil power of money, juxtaposed with a fine garland of songs on spring, dance and love. In addition there is the poetry of the vagantes, the wandering scholars, songs which are devoted to the rough pleasures of drink, gambling and love-making. Finally there are two ecclesiastical plays. Seriousness and cheerfulness, good and bad humour, reason and emotion, the joys and the pains of love, springtime joys, disgust, satire, sorrow, high spirits, all the ups and downs of life are united in a manifold picture of life, a mirror of the times as well as a picture of unchanging humanity, which is genuine throughout and informed by a healthy optimism.

The present choral composition combines all these elements in a selection of the most attractive pieces, places them in a new order according to the composer's own idea of poetry and music. Invigorated with the contemporary idiom, the dead letter of those times rises into new life and is wedded to our life. It is the world of venus generosa encompassed in the realm of the great goddess of fortune and fate.

A rare find:

a town house
with real personality and an incredible view on a fine old hill in San Francisco

It seems unlikely. Especially if you care about good design and a view and an established neighborhood. But take heart. The three ingredients of a rare find are all in one place. And each of them has a special quality.

The town house designs by San Francisco architects Hayes & Smith, AIA (national award winners), reflect a character in tune with the site. There are bays, a copper hooded fireplace with marble hearth, an interior terrace and oiled walnut walls. You can return to the view in the living room, formal dining room and master bedroom. Three and four bedrooms. Each with personality.

You are invited to visit the display home, open daily and weekends from 1 pm. to 5 pm. Or, if you prefer, call OV 1-7990 to arrange an appointment at a more convenient time.

DIRECTIONS: From Lincoln Way at the southern border of Golden Gate Park, turn toward Forest Hill on Ninth Avenue. Continue on Ninth Avenue into the Forest Hill area. Turn right on Mendosa from Ninth Avenue and follow Mendosa to the top.

KENNEY HOMES / FOREST HILL HEIGHTS

THE STORY OF "LE NOZZE DI FIGARO"

ACT I

Figaro and Susanna, in preparation for their forthcoming marriage, are preparing the room they will occupy. Susanna is afraid it is too close to Count Almaviva's chambers, since he has been casting desirous eyes upon her. Marcellina enters with Dr. Bartolo, to whom she complains that Figaro has previously agreed to marry her! As they depart, Cherubino comes to see Susanna. Just then the Count enters and Cherubino hides, but the Count himself is shortly forced to hide at the entrance of Don Basilio. Soon both are uncovered and the Count exiles Cherubino to the army.

ACT II

Countess Almaviva, Susanna and Figaro conspire in a plot to bring the erring Count back to his wife. The plot requires Cherubino to dress as a woman, but in the middle of the preparations the Count arrives. Cherubino hides in a closet and the Count goes off for tools to force the door. While he is gone Susanna enters the closet and Cherubino leaps from the window. All is well until the gardener complains that someone has smashed his flower pots under the window. Figaro takes the blame. Then Marcellina and her retinue enter and demand that Figaro carry out his promise to marry her.

ACT III

The Count asks Susanna for a rendezvous in the garden that evening, telling her that otherwise he will force Figaro to marry Marcellina. This is soon proved impossible, however, since due to a birth mark on his arm, Figaro turns out to be Marcellina and Dr. Bartolo's long-lost son! As the others celebrate the Countess, still mourning her own husband's indifference, dictates a note for Susanna to give him, arranging for the promised tete-a-tete that evening. The note is sealed with a pin, to be returned.

SCENE 2—The marriage of Susanna and Figaro is performed, and during the festivities Susanna slips the Count his note.

ACT IV

Barbarina, searching in the garden for the pin which the Count has given to her and she has lost, inadvertently tells Figaro of the plot which Susanna and the Countess have hatched—they will disguise themselves as each other! What follows is a comedy of errors. When Susanna (as the Countess) sings of her love for Figaro, he thinks she is referring to the Count. Cherubino enters and makes love to the Countess (thinking she is Susanna). He is sent away by the Count, who takes over himself. But when the Count sees Figaro making love to the supposed Countess (really Susanna) he loses his temper. Then the plot is exposed, and the couples happily reunited.

A warning gong will be sounded in the foyers six minutes before the end of each intermission. A buzzer will signal the end of the intermission.

Traditionally Fine Jewelers

Established 1895

THE OPERA DEPENDS UPON PERSONAL DEDICATION

The 1964 fall season of the San Francisco Opera marks the 42nd year of its proud existence, and the increasing demand for fine opera in San Francisco is gratifying. Those years since 1923 have given our Opera a reputation for excellence which assures its status among the finest opera companies of the world. Although other major opera organizations have longer seasons, the San Francisco Opera continues to capture the imagination and devotion of those all over the world who know fine opera.

The San Francisco Opera Association is closer to being self-supporting than any other major opera organization in the world. The Association works vigorously each year conducting successful fund raising campaigns vital to its support. These contributions, together with its regular income from ticket sales and guarantors, enable the San Francisco Opera to present the consistently fine artistic achievements for which it is deservedly famous. However, despite steadily rising costs, so familiar to us in every facet of our existence today, a minimum of $160,000, the goal of last year's successful drive, is required again this year. The need for the full amount is vital.

Every effort is made by the Association at all times to establish the lowest possible operating budget, consistent with its ability to present opera of the highest standards. However, the normal processes of attrition mean that new and additional support from individuals, businesses, foundations and local government must be constantly sought, as well as continued assistance from our past contributors. By broadening the base of financial responsibility, we can provide a firm foundation for our operations. If all those who value opera's contribution to our cultural life will invest in its future, the need will be met.

Nothing can more clearly emphasize the need for financial support to meet steadily rising costs than the recent publicity resulting from our difficulty in reaching an agreement with the orchestra, despite our having made substantial concessions. Nevertheless, the Association strongly feels its obligation to ask no more of contributors than is actually needed at any time. Much will depend upon the dedication with which each individual meets his own responsibility to the Opera. We are counting upon a response from loyal contributors which will endorse the Association's efforts in establishing the 1964 goal at the minimum necessary amount.

The personal involvement of each person who loves opera must continue to grow and expand, just as the San Francisco Opera is doing. One cannot exist without the other.

WINES OF CHARACTER, DEPENDABILITY & REPUTATION

Quality is our watch word. There can be no relaxing from the highest precepts of the art of wine making, no cutting of corners. To make outstanding wines a vintner should keep a true perspective between the boon of modern equipment and the human element ever present in wine making.

Seeing is believing. Visitors are graciously welcome on our guided tours and in our new tasting room.

The winery is open to the public every day in the year, a few universal holidays excepted.
